Students with disabilities at the University of Pittsburgh have the right to:

- An equal opportunity to access the courses, programs, services and activities at the University of Pittsburgh.
- Request reasonable accommodations, academic adjustments or auxiliary aids and services.
- Appropriate confidentiality of information regarding their disability, except as disclosures are required or permitted by law.

Students with disabilities at the University of Pittsburgh have the responsibility to:

- Maintain institutional standards for academic performance and conduct.
- Apply for services with Disability Resources and Services (DRS) and request accommodations.
- Request academic accommodations for each term and discuss implementation of accommodations with instructors.
- Submit alternative testing requests in advance (3 business days* during the academic term and 7 business days* for exams held during the fall/spring final examination period) in order to take the exam with accommodations in the University of Pittsburgh Testing Center (UPTC).
- Schedule exams for the exact date and time of the class. Any variation in exam date and/or time must first be approved by the instructor.
- Contact DRS if questions arise related to accommodations or if accommodations are not being implemented.

By electronically signing this form in the DRS Student Portal, the Student acknowledges that the Student has read the above terms, understands them and agrees to abide by them.
